Dear Friend:

The Cora Hartshorn Arboretum is a historic woodlands and conservation institution whose mission is to foster and promote environmental awareness, education, and stewardship within the greater community. We are a haven of natural open space in a hectic world, here because of Cora Hartshorn and the generosity of our members and donors. We invite you to join us in our efforts to provide engaging and educational programming for visitors of all ages.

Historically, the Cora Hartshorn Arboretum has been an important regional resource for woodlands conservation, as well as a provider of high quality education programs for children, adults, and families. We have embraced our woodlands as a living laboratory that allows us to provide impactful conservation programs year-round to all who visit, while we stand as stewards to the living things that call the woods their home. Our conservation and education programs are rooted in a foundation that is collaborative, science-based, sustainable, and welcoming of partnerships with community volunteers. In 2019, through the charitable giving of our members, we were able to add to the Arboretum's family: a screech-owl named Sassafras, from a wildlife rehabilitation center in Virginia, who was looking for a forever home. Successes like this, both recent and historic, have excited us about the future of the Arboretum.

Future Challenges

We are aware of the future challenges that await us and know our stewardship principles and education ideologies will be tested. Climate change, ecological variances, and even local changes in our neighborhood will greatly add to our forest management challenges. Yet we are optimistic about our future. With our amazing Stone House exhibits, prosperous woodlands, and stalwart staff and volunteers, we have rededicated ourselves with greater resolve to our education and conservation messages. We are creating a unique and fun environment that both improves our quality of life and facilitates necessary connections that will impact positive local change. The Cora Hartshorn Arboretum is now better than ever and reaffirming its enormous value to children and residents of the community, and we need your help to continue advancing our efforts.

Please deepen your commitment to the Cora Hartshorn Arboretum & Bird Sanctuary by making a gift to our annual appeal this fall. Your generous donation will help to preserve this vital community resource and allow us to continue the innovative programming that sets us apart from the rest as we move forward toward an exciting future ahead.

We hope you will join us for a walk in the woods or for one of our programs soon!

Many, many thanks.

Tedor Whitman, Director
